Resignation of Storza Declined by Mussolini; Reopening of Course Ordered.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Rome.—It was on the road back to normalcy Wednesday after a most exhilarating week that saw the younger generation rise to power and, in great triumph, overthrow the older politicians.

Tens of thousands of the vigorous young Fascisti and their admirers, who accompanied them here from all over the land, were at the war home Wednesday. Tuesday they were the thrill of a real Roman triumph. Dr. Benito Mussolini and his new Fascisti ministry had taken their oaths before the sovereign. The black skirted boys and men marched as victors through the ancient streets, crowded with a vast concourse that, for the day, doubled the population of Rome. Wednesday the flush of triumph gave way to the bustle of toll.

Premier Hard Worker
Dr. Mussolini was on the job early and he said he was going to see that everybody else engaged in the business of the nation followed suit. He made it plain that he was going to rule with an iron hand, that Italy might the sooner be restored to a better economic basis and a more powerful place in international affairs.

For the moment, at least, communism has no part in the Italy. The onslaught of the Fascisti has dealt all radicalism a paralyzing blow. Carrying their life of Italy, the onslaught of the Fascisti has dealt all communism a paralyzing blow. Carrying their banner to the labor temples and the meeting places of their antagonists the Fascisti have seized the records and rosters and burned them.

Politically, the chief topic in Italy is what the fortune of the new cabinet will be before the chamber of deputies. If Mussolini's government does not receive a majority in the chamber, he will have parliament dissolved and the Fascisti will take that cause to the country.

Aks Storza to Stay

Vittorio Rolandi, Italian ambassador at Washington, has presented his resignation like his colleagues, Count Storza, ambassador at Paris, and Count Frassati, ambassador at Berlin, wishing to leave Premier Mussolini free to choose his own trusted men.

It developed Wednesday that Premier Mussolini had sent a reply to the letter of resignation from Count Storza, reproaching him for his action and asking him to remain at his post.

Minister of Industry Rossi, in agreement with the minister of the treasury, has taken steps for the immediate reopening of the course, it was semi-officially announced.

Expect 75 From County at Racine

Janesville's 23 delegates to the state Older Boys' and Girls' conference at Racine, Nov. 10, 11 and 12, will be among the expected 75 delegates to go from the county. E. P. Hodges, president of the Rock County Sunday School association, says all Protestant churches in the city and perhaps in the county, will be represented. At least 1,000 are expected.

The conference is being held early this year so as not to conflict with the Older Boys' conference at La Crosse, sponsored by the Y. M. C. A. during Thanksgiving vacation. This one is sponsored by the state Sunday school association.

Mrs. Mary Barker, superintendent of young people's work in the county, will accompany the delegation.

GERMANY UNABLE TO TRADE IN ARGENTINA

Buenos Aires.—Dr. Walter Simons, former German minister for foreign affairs, in Buenos Aires recently, declared the commercial relations between Germany and Argentina have come almost to a standstill. The reason is, he explains, that Germany has no money with which to do business, all her cash supplies having been turned over to the reparations commission.

GANGS DO DAMAGE THROUGHOUT CITY

Hallowe'en Observance Is Worst in Several Years—Firemen Kept Busy.

Youths of Janesville ran wild, Tuesday night, in the most riotous and noisiest observance of Hallowe'en here in several years. Property damage was much worse this year than last despite the efforts of several squads of police patrolling the city to prevent it.

Adding excitement to the nights' revelry was a series of 10 false fire alarms from all parts of the city, which kept firemen up until after midnight. On the first few alarms from No. 1 and No. 2 companies responded but after that only one car was sent out each time. A shack near the corner of Center and Eastern avenues was destroyed by fire about 11 p. m. with the Springfield Fire company using its lead of hose to fight it. It is believed the fire was started by youths seeking an excuse to pull an alarm.

Police received 25 calls during the evening against only 18 on Hallowe'en night last year. At the George Tallman home, South Academy street, an iron fence was torn down and others damaged.

The large hall made at different intervals included men's and women's suits, overcoats, dresses, silk shirts, skirts, waist sweaters and hats.

Hidden in Cave

After Lund, suspected of the deal, had been put through a grueling by local detectives, he consented to take the officers to the place of concealment of the stolen articles. Hidden in a mud bank three feet deep about five feet square, at the rear of the Normal school dormitory, nearly $800 worth of the clothes were discovered.

This cave had been well constructed having been well lined with tar paper to insure protection to the clothes from dampness, and neatly laid out to eliminate detection. Detective O. Peterson and Martin Widness dug up the goods and brought them to police headquarters.

See Salt on Girl

Saturday Mr. Elias, manager of the store, and his wife were in a local shop, said restaurant, when Lund, with a young woman friend entered the establishment. The girl dashed out in a suit and hat possibly identified by Mr. and Mrs. Elias as coming from their store. Inquiry was made as to the girl and if she carried an account, which they found she did not. The girl, when questioned by the police, denied all knowledge of the affair and refused to give further information.

Lund is being held by the police.

High Record for Freight Loading; Coal Speeding Up

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington.—Indications of rapidly improving conditions in the country's general business life were given Wednesday in reports to the executive section of the American Railway Association, which, among other things, showed the greatest weekly loading of freight from which the railroads derived revenue, in two years.

The reports disclosed that, with the exception of four weeks in September and October, 1920, the loading of 1,003,759 cars of revenue freight the week of Oct. 21 was the greatest on record.

Los Angeles.—Further reading of depositions designed to support the contention of the defense that Mrs. Clara Phillips is a "moron" and subject to "psychic epilepsy" was forecast for today in the trial for the murder of Mrs. Alberta Meadows, 20-year-old widow. Bertram Harrington, 21, defense counsel for Mrs. Phillips, in outlining his case to the jury, declared it would be shown that Mrs. Peggy Coffey, star witness for the state and only eye witness to the slaying, "guessed" Mrs. Phillips' every action the day Mrs. Meadows was slain and that Mrs. Coffey and not the defendant was the purchaser of the hammer with which the young widow was beaten to death.

HOTEL PROPRIETOR TO FACE CROSS EXAMINATION

Los Angeles.—Cross examination of Thomas E. Healy, hotel proprietor, who testified on direct examination that he was "suspectus" of the defendant, was expected to be continued Wednesday at the trial of Arthur J. Burch for the murder of Dr. J. Kennedy. Healy testified he first became "suspectus" of Burch when the latter went to Healy's hotel and offered a "bonus" for a room directly across the street from the brokerage office of Kennedy. His "suspicions" were further aroused, he said, by Burch's request to be permitted to receive visits in his room from a woman "cousin," the latter, according to the state's contention, being Mrs. Madalynne C. Oberchain.

Waukesha, Mich.—Rosalie Shantz, 11 years old, kidnapped Sunday as she came from church, was found wandering in the woods near Dublin, Milwaukee county, late Tuesday night, according to a telegram received Wednesday from the chief of police at Wellington, Mich.

According to the police the message intimated that the girl had been abandoned by her abductor and had wandered about in the woods until she reached a farm house where she was given shelter.

Waukesha officers have left for Wellington, where the girl was removed early Wednesday.

A posse is searching the woods near Dublin for trace of a man who is said by two boys here to have enticed the child into an automobile Sunday.

Business as Usual on Armistice Day

However, the window will be open and regular mail deliveries will be made.

Banks are planning to run as usual on Armistice day. The fact that it comes on Saturday the 11th will not be a hindrance, as the banks will be closed on election day, Nov. 5, and Armistice day has not been proclaimed a legal holiday, they will do business as usual.

Last year they closed by agreement, as did grocers, butchers and other merchants.

CHANCE TO BETTER MARKET ON BUTTER

Dean Russell Declares Wisconsin Has Good Trade Opportunities.

Madison—Wisconsin has a great opportunity to spread more of the best of the world.

Mr. Russell, dean of the Wisconsin College of Agriculture, says so.

"The state already has the dairy cattle, the pasture lands, the crops, the climate, the dairymen, the buttermakers, and all of the other production facilities for a wonderful butter industry," he declares. "The one greatest need, according to him, is to develop a special market for butter in Federated Marketing."

Considered from the standpoint of transportation facilities, we are, he believes, in an extremely favorable position to market her product. Direct connection both by rail and by boat, with the best and biggest markets, is available.

Dean Russell sees in federated creameries an outlet for marketing methods, a cure for some of our dairy woes. He believes that thousands of dollars can be saved the dairymen of the state by employing these two agencies in disposing of the milk of the two million dairy cows constituting the cow population of the Badger state.

That federated creameries are paying big dividends to their patrons, and making one of the most profitable investments for dairymen in Wisconsin, is the view held by H. C. Larson, secretary of the Wisconsin Buttermark Association.

"No question," he says,

"but that cooperative creameries are paying more money to the farmers for a pound of butter."

"Coop" Creameries.

Russell and Larson both point to Polk county as an example of what cooperation has done in supporting and pushing the dairy industry in Wisconsin and helping her to maintain the lead as the greatest of all dairy states.

In Polk county, every creamery is cooperative, and there are 20 creameries in Polk county. They produced last year, over 5,000,000 pounds of butter and will increase this output to 6,000,000 pounds this year, according to present reports.

These 20 cooperative creameries increased the butter returns to the dairymen of the county about $50,000. By shipping in carloads to the big eastern markets, at least $30,000 annually is saved the farmers in freight rates.

Prize New Oat Named "Forward"

By College Staff

Another member has been added to Wisconsin's oat family. It has been named "Forward" in honor of the name of the state.

The new variety was developed at the branch station of the University of Wisconsin and is proving its right to the throne in Wisconsin's oat kingdom.

It outstands its nearest competitor by more than six and one-half bushels to the acre in the present season's race, according to E. J. Delwiche, agronomist in charge of the plant located at Ashland Junction.

A load of 17½ bushels to the acre over Swedish Select, the variety of oats most commonly grown in this section, was easily attained by the "Forward."

The new variety has outyielded its nearest competitor, four bushels to the acre over an eight-year period.

The original selection, from which "Forward" has been developed, was made at the Experiment Station here in 1911. Last spring over 300 bushels were distributed in Upper Wisconsin from the branch station alone. Besides this amount, several large growers also disseminated seed.

Wisconsin Is 5th

In Honey Market

The beekeepers of LaFayette county recently met at the courthouse and organized a county association. They will affiliate with the State Beekeepers Association. L. T. Whitehead, extension apiculturist at the University of Wisconsin, reported this as the 44th local association to be formed in Wisconsin and the 63rd local to become affiliated with the state association.

Wisconsin now ranks fifth in honey production among all the states, having approximately 12,752 beekeepers with 118,421 colonies, producing over 6,000,000 pounds of honey the past season. This is a slight increase over any previous year and shows the increasing importance of the industry.

Each local association is doing much to improve conditions in its respective locality. Another interest is being created in beekeeping. This results in the adoption of better methods of management and indirect methods of production. More intelligent methods are being employed in preparing the honey for market.

New Barley Variety Is Without "Beards"

A new variety of barley destined to revolutionize the grain farming is in the process of development at the Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station.

The feature of the new variety is the smooth awn or "beard." Sharp barbs on the beards of all common varieties make barley a disagreeable crop to harvest. After examining the plots at the Badger experiment station, H. W. Wallace, editor of Wallace's Farmer, predicts that within 10 years most barley growing farmers will be using smooth-awned varieties, and barley will be substituted much more generally for rye than is the case at the present time.

The smooth-awned barley is being developed by E. D. Leith of the sta-

WHOLE CABINET IS BLAMED FOR FALL

Coalition, Not Lloyd George Himself, at Fault, Says Economist.

New York—That the fall of the British coalition government cannot be entirely attributed to Lloyd George—but that the whole cabinet was responsible in the opinion of Sir George Taish, British economist who has come to the United States for another visit.

"I believe," he said, commenting on the change, "that coalition's attitude on the Non-Essential problems culminated in the demand for the resignation. No one desires more war. The Turkish question has been permitted to drag along and should have been dealt with long ago. That is why the British people were anxious to have the government policy discontinued."

"Any new regime in Great Britain would always maintain the same friendliness of attitude toward the United States."

Irish Question Adjusted

St. John's, N.Y.—When the Rev. Eliot Padwick, on trial for the alleged murder of his wife and her mother, Mrs. M. B. Dixon, took the stand in his own behalf here Tuesday, his first act was to lead the courtroom in prayer, after which he proceeded to deliver a sermon on the text "Thou shalt not," which probably was the most dramatic defense statement ever uttered in a court room in this state.

In his prayer, Padwick asked for divine guidance for the court, the future of the church and the people of Statesboro.

He then turned to the jury and delivered a short sermon.

War on Overdraft Evil Is Advocated

ISABEL TO THE GAZETTE

Milwaukee—Overdrafts on banks by customers have increased in Wisconsin during the past few months, according to a report issued by Marshall Cousins, commissioner of banking. He asks banks to fight against what he terms "the overdraft evil."

The Milwaukee bank has adopted the policy of collecting these customers whose account was frequently overdrawn to close the account," Mr. Cousins said. "In these cases where the overdrawing is habitual banks should require the closing of the account. Such an account is of no value to the bank."

"A large borrower should not be permitted under any circumstances to increase his obligation to the bank through overdrawing his account. The overdraft must be contained always as part of the line of a borrower. In those cases where a borrower has already reached the statutory limit, it is a direct violation of the law to permit his obligation to be increased through an overdraft."

Noiseless

Motors

What a blessing to mankind is the man or woman of quiet power, who gets things done easy and naturally! How we admire the smooth flow of energy that speeds the work in hand on its way without noise.

Don't you agree with us that absence of rumble and spluttering is as much a sign of real efficiency in people as it is automobile motors? Perhaps it is too much to expect an absolutely smooth-running business, home or world. Human beings are not machines —for which let's be thankful. But at least we can shun the example of those who confuse noise with work and friction with progress.

CITY NEWS IN BRIEF

Gasoline Price Cut—Local offices of Wadham's, the country's largest gasoline company, have word of a one cent reduction in the price of gasoline. The new price effective here at once are 23.6 cents tank wagon and 26 cents at filling stations.

Hanker Tess Glynn—One of the stunts that proved to provide the most amusement and least property wrecking on Hallowe'en night was the one that was found impaled on a porch in the Third Ward, and then throwing him high using the ring as a fireman's net. As long as enough boys hung on the edges of the roof, there was no chance of getting him off except by the ones selling in the air almost as high as the street light, but when interest lagged, the bums on the pavement at the end of each descent discontinued the sport.

Newspaper to Malefactors—Newsboys of the Gazette will be treated to a real thrill Friday night when they will be the guests of Mrs. Bea Smith of the newspaper, who has written an article on "Buffalo Bill." This picture features a western favorite, Art Accord, and is said to be educational in its historical views. The nature of the story can best be judged from the fact that Indians and cowboys figure largely, and many exciting fights are shown.

Mrs. Herdendorf Files Claim for Broken Knee-Cap Suffered in Fall.—Mrs. Herdendorf, 355 Milton Street, Mrs. Mary Herdendorf, 355 Milton Street, has filed a claim with City Clerk E. J. Sartell for presentation to the council at its next meeting, Nov. 13. The claimant is represented by T. S. Nolan.

The accident on which the claim is based occurred on the afternoon of Saturday, Oct. 21, in front of 315 East Milwaukee street, on the outer edge of the sidewalk which is a part of the driveway from the street. It is charged that there were several holes in the walk, from two to three inches long and one-half inch or more deep, large enough to receive a portion of a woman's knee.

Mrs. Herdendorf claims she slipped into one of these holes and was thrown into violence to the walk, fracturing the kneecap of her right leg, suspending the sack underneath it and otherwise bruising her. She says her doctors, W. A. Mann and E. A. Joomis, inform her that she will be unable to use the leg for three to six months and that the chances are even she will never be able to bend the knee. She says she is obliged to work to obtain a living for herself and infant child and has no money with which to pay doctors' bills.

Organize to Save Training Station

Chicago—The hastily organized committee to save Great Lakes has called daily meetings here as a result of rumored decision by the navy department to abolish the Great Lakes naval training station.

D. L. Goodwillie, chairman of the committee, made public a letter from J. F. Leopold of the Iowa State Chamber of Commerce quoting Admiral Hugh Rodman, chairman of the commission which has the Great Lakes matter in charge, as follows:

"The great lakes naval station is slated to go and must go, under our present arrangements, which cannot be changed." Mr. Leopold said the admiral told him, adding in the letter that Admiral Rodman "gave me to understand that it was physically impossible for the government to continue this station," although he knew it would work much hardship on many of the men in the service.

he characterized as an "attempt to whitewash" Mr. Christler's character.

Ownership of the gun which was used in the killing is another mystery. It was not Mrs. Carleton's as far as is known. She had a revolver, a smaller weapon, which was found later among her effects. Investigation thus far has failed to disclose that it was the property of the Christlers.

Diamond Rings Gone

Mrs. Pyle also has claimed that diamond rings which Mrs. Carleton was seen wearing Thursday evening have not been found and has suggested that if the rings were taken from Mrs. Carleton's hand after the shooting, the revolver might have been placed in the open palm at the same time.

The only story of the shooting told so far was that of Mrs. Christler, said to be the only other person in the Christler house at the time. She had her back toward Mr. Christler and Mrs. Carleton when she heard two shots, and turned to see Mrs. Carleton fall, she told the coroner's jury.

City officials and physicians who answered Mrs. Christler's telephone call after the shooting found the bodies in a small hall in which the chief of police resided at the time, there could not have been a bullet in wall.

Mr. Christler was over six feet tall and Mrs. Carleton was of small build. The bullet thought to have killed Mr. Christler passed through his body and was found in an opposite wall.

Mr. and Mrs. Pyle left Wednesday for Helena, where a second funeral service for Mrs. Carleton will be held. One was held here yesterday.

Mrs. Pyle said before leaving that she did not yet have sufficient evidence to determine the true facts of the case, but stated that either she or Mr. Pyle would return to Havre Thursday to carry on the investigation.

STIMULATING THE IMAGINATION

BY FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington.—If you have read some particularly uninspired fiction lately you will be glad to know that methods of measuring imagination are being solved. How to induce all the writers and would-be writers to test themselves is, of course, another problem, as yet unsolved.

In recent years there has appeared a vast literature designed to show that anybody who is so inclined can turn out fiction. The result of this teaching has been that magazine offices are flooded with neat stories carefully put together by rule and carefully conforming to the psychology of reader and editor, as the textbook advised.

Thus scarcely a fiction writer in the country remains ignorant of the established fact that editors abhor blue ribbon bows on manuscripts. It is widely understood that a rolled manuscript would be coldly returned unread. Also, few if any fiction manufacturers are unaware that a happy ending is as necessary to a story as a snap beginning. Editors, a writer is told, acquire the habit of reading the first page and the last of a story. If they are aroused from their apathy the interior of the manuscript may be explored. Such habits have become tradition among the vast circle of fictioneers.

The creative faculty, being more elusive, has been passed over vaguely by most textbook writers. It is assumed that a certain amount of imagination goes with the desire to create characters and plots. Nevertheless most of the fiction writers who never land simply lack a flexible imagination. They are encouraged by friends and by their own judgments to weave stories when they have no inventive talents or when their imaginations run along stereotyped lines.

It must be admitted that occasionally fiction writers attain success in spite of this defect. A charming style, a knack of writing from the humorist's viewpoint, may raise the most hackneyed plot out of the ordinary. Generally, however, the gift of style or humor goes with an original and imaginative mind.

The problem of classifying imagination from a literary standpoint attracted Dr. Edwin Slosson and Dr. June Downey. Dr. Slosson is an editor, author, and teacher of journalism. Dr. Downey is a writer and professor of psychology at the University of Wyoming. Using as subjects college students, mainly those interested in creative writing, a variety of tests were made.

For test material Dr. Slosson went first of all to the personal column of the London Times.

The personal column in this particular paper is notable for its unusual messages, and is popularly known as the " agony column." Lovers who cannot write or get together exchange cryptic encodings. Business firms send signals in code. Mothers beg estranged sons to return home, and people of peculiar talents advertise here hoping that some reader may need their services.

Most of the messages are only for the person to whom they are addressed, and the general reader must guess at the meaning. Such a message as "Gollivog.—The gold is gone—Waiting," might refer to an attempted burglary, or a bushy deal, or it might be a lover's sentimental way of saying that a trouble-making blonde had passed out of his life.

Dr. Downey tried a series of these items on students asking them to construct a story from a given personal and classified the results according to grades of imagination. We quote her divisions of imagination here because it may be of interest to the reader to classify his own creative faculty.

The divisions are: (1) the inert imagination; (2) the stereotyped imagination; (3) the melodramatic imagination; (4) the generalizing imagination; (5) the particularizing imagination; (6) the ingenious or inventive imagination.

The last class contains persons who construct unusual and interesting situations from a hint such as the personals give. They avoid the obvious conclusion which the stereotyped imagination seizes upon. Their imagination is stimulated easily. They do not reject the plot germ in a personal as trivial or meaningless, as the inert imagination does.

The generalizing type of imagination is not specific enough for fiction and the results on paper are apt to be abstractions. This sort of imagination usually accompanies the scientific turn of mind.

The particularizing imagination, on the other hand, is of real assistance to fiction writing. The person who notes the little things that distinguish people and situations has Helen material if he can use it skillfully. When the fifth and sixth types are combined the possessor has a promising equipment for creating stories.

The individual who regards himself as lacking in imagination may be encouraged by the fact that this faculty can to some extent be developed. In a recent book on the subject, Drs. Slosson and Downey explain their experiments in training as well as testing the creative imagination. They point out that certain famous artists deliberately stimulated their creative impulse by devices:

"Many of the minor eccentricities of genius appear to be the outcome of accidental discoveries of ways of increasing brain activity. Rousseau and Shelley were given to exposing the bare head to the hottest of midday suns; and Whitman wrote much of his 'Leaves of Grass,' while prone upon the white sands of a Long Island beach, with such a sun as only seems to blaze there."

Dr. Downey further points out that Darwin found scientific reflections stimulated by music, and that Wagner's sense of the dramatic was heightened by the present of rich fabrics and colors.

Undoubtedly, different brains respond to the stimulation of different senses. Dr. Downey tried experiments with combinations of odors on students. Music was similarly employed to see whether themes would suggest striking personalities or dramatic situations to the students. Setting small groups of writers to composing a story together was still another experiment. Some well-known writers have produced their best work by the social stimulation gained through collaboration.

The experiments were not conducted by the college professors so much for the purpose of making scientific tables as to show the students the character of their imagination and its possibilities. Devices such as those mentioned, the two professors call gymnastic exercises for the imagination. When the subject is explored further we may find that such exercises can be reduced to a scientific daily dozen for the busy and ambitious fiction writer.

TAKE A PART IN THE HOMECOMING

Just look at the platoons, squads and companies of boys and girls as they come from the doors of the high school. There are hundreds of men and women in Janesville and scattered to the four corners of the earth who once went to that or the high school building which preceded it. And the eternal mill of time is going on grinding out men and women—or is that too practical? Shall we not better say in this garden of knowledge the boys and girls grow like beautiful flowers to make the earth better? For about ten years the child grows to manhood and womanhood, spends at least a third of the time in school. Therefore it is not to be lightly held—this spirit of love for the alma mater which makes "alumni associations" and homecomings and the old and young join in having a real time. Some years ago Janesville had an alumni association and it is a good thing to revive. Then too we are to have a Homecoming this week and that is a good thing to remember. No one who ever went to or graduated from the Janesville high school should overlook this Homecoming day. The way to keep young is to be young.

If the city of Janesville wants its tax burden added to or if the farmers want more taxes, then the amendment should be passed. If they do not and feel that this is a good time to smash all schemes to load up the taxpayer with more on his back, then vote NO on the amendment Tuesday next.

The most popular expression in Germany is "God save the mark!"

JUST FOLKS

PHILOSOPHY

Philosophy is good enough when everything is fair. To help us see the greater plan behind life's grief and care;

It's good for talking purposes, when friends drop in to chat. And it's fine to hear them say: "I never thought of that." But when a fellow's in the mud, beyond the slightest doubt,

The best sort of philosophy is first to help him out.

You find it full you pip and smoke and ponder various things.

To find the hidden benefit which every burden brings;

To build your faith in what is good and see the distant goal;

And learn that every test of care is tonic for the soul;

But when a friend is fighting hard and being put to rout,

The best sort of philosophy is first to help him out.

You take a man in trouble, doubt, or danger, or distress.

He doesn't want a lecture on his future happiness;

When he is up against it hard and faint and falling fast,

It's no use then to call to mind the errors of his past;

He doesn't want a moralizing, preaching friend about.

He desperately needs a chap who'll try to help him out.

We should be philosophical. All men should try to see;

The purpose back of every care and all that has to be;

But many a philosopher stands on the river's brink

And, calmly tells a drowning man that he must swim or sink;

And so I half the willing man with arms and muscles stout

Who finds it half in trouble and jumps in to help him out.

ISOLATION

I think very well of the English. I'm not fighting mad at the Turks. I've swallowed my wrath at the Germans. The Austrians and all their works.

I favor the Greeks and Italians. The Chinks and the Swedes and the Japs. The Finns and the Letts and the Poles. For I am in none of their scraps.

The Eskimos do not displease me.

The Finns and the Poles are all right. I don't knock the Swiss or Norwegians. The Belgians are good in my sight.

I have no bad word for the Poles.

Or those on the Island of Switzerland. The Portuguese, Slovaks, Egyptians. Are welcome to all they have got.

These people all have my best wishes.

I'll even shake hands with the Russes. If they'll all attend their own business.

And not try to monkey with us.

There is quite a lot of difference between a fool and a darn fool. The latter is one who gets stung twice in the same place.

The weather has a long record of public service, which extends back in history as far as the flood. In fact, it was at that very time that the weather performed its greatest service to the world. For long time a crowd of cynes had poked fun at Noah for building the ark. They used to make fun of him out loud. Then along came the weather, promptly on time, and for the first time in the history of the world a bunch of knockers got exactly what was coming to them.

Actress says sleeping out of doors makes a person beautiful, but we have never seen any prize beauties among the park bench gang.

TODAY'S WISE CRACK.

No beautiful woman would ever consent to a woman jury if she were on trial for murder.

GRAIN

Chicago Review. Chicago grain weather, which generally occupied apprehension of damage to the winter crop had a bearing influence on the wheat market Wednesday during early dealings. The fact that preliminary arrivals were smaller than expected in the case of a new assay tended further to weaken values. The opening here, which varied from 14¢ decline to a like advance with Dec. $1.12½@1.13½; Mar. $1.11½@1.12½, was followed by a moderate setback all around and then something of a rally.

Wheat tools decided swing upward in price Wednesday after the buying authority had estimated that winter wheat supplies would show a reduction of 19 per cent, namely 4,500,000 acres.

Bullock gasoline as far as enlarged European demand for wheat and dry grain has been affected by reports from reports from Argentina. The close was unsettled 1½@2½c higher, Dec. $1.10½@1.10½; Mar. $1.14@1.14½.

Subsequently, trade broadened in extent, and the market moved up steadily, nearly to the highest level this season. Radical changes in winter wheat acreage estimates attracted chief attention.

Corn was relatively firm owing to absence of selling pressure. After 41½c the market made slight gains.

Later the market scored a sharp advance, a result of estimates that the harvest will be 480,000,000 bushels less than the previous year. The market closed firm 1½c net higher, Dec. 16@16½c.

Grain started 2c higher, Dec. 41½c. Later continued to gain.

Provisions were inclined to sag.

Board Evolving Elimination Plan for H. S. Grid Title

STRONGEST TEAMS
MAY BE SCHEDULED ON NEUTRAL SITES

Busy Man's Sport Page

By FRANK SINCLAIR

Determination of the state high school football championship will be made upon an elimination basis this year.

The Wisconsin Interscholastic association is working with the institutions now leading the race in an effort to come to a more equitable solution of the title, according to Fred J. Holt, Edgerton, secretary. The list of undefeated schools was officially given out by Mr. Holt, Tuesday, as follows:

Edgerton, Fort Atkinson, La Crosse, Marinette, Stevens Point, Sheboygan, Superior Central-West Allis and Waukesha.

"There may be others besides these nine that we have not heard from," said Mr. Holt.

The list gives two teams in southern Wisconsin a chance to be found in the final running. In the event either plays in an elimination contest, which would have to be held upon a neutral field, the battle may be started in Janesville. A bid for such a game has been made by The Gazette, and rests in the hands of the W. I. A. A.

May the other teams, The fact that there are nine undefeated teams holding the limelight does not mean all other outfits are not to be considered. There are some eleven who have only one defeat, which, upon comparison of the strength of the teams they have met, must be included among the contenders for the honor.

Examination of the whole situation will be made by the state board at its annual meeting in Milwaukee, Nov. 8. The officials of the W. I. A. A., at that time, will go over the records of each team, after which an announcement on plans will be made. It is understood the board will take it upon itself to schedule the elimination contests, naming the dates and places for the games.

Kiss Challenge Method

In this manner, the procession toward the pennant honors will prove more intense than under the old method of issuing and accepting challenges.

Of the undefeated teams, the following games are scheduled for the coming week-end:

Edgerton at Janesville; Fort Atkinson at Stoughton; Racine at Sheboygan; Oconto at Marinette; Superior Central-West Duluth; Stevens Point at Idar, Wausau at Merrill.

Where They Play

The Edgerton-Janesville game will be one of the toughest on this list, with every indication being that the Blues will be in their greatest fighting spirit of the year. Fort Atkinson will find its hardest enemy of the season in Stoughton, and while it should win, there are possibilities of an upset. The Racine-Sheboygan battle will be severe and the edge going to Racine. Marinette will meet a worthy, if ferociously scrapping enemy in Oconto. Superior Central-West game with Duluth; Stevens Point at Idar; Wausau at Merrill.

Football—Wisconsin practices longer and harder than at any previous time this season, realizing strength of Minnesota. No cripples now on Copier squad, when only light work was held Tuesday because of rain-soaked field. Chil-eague gridiron perfecting Ohio and Illinois, preparing to meet against vari-sites in preparation for these battles.

Four touchdowns in less than 19 minutes were recorded by the Ohio regulars against the frosh.—Northwestern's first year men, using a circuit route, plows through the Purples' first team.—Agnew has reduced Onkes at right tackle on the Unit with a possibility that there will be a change at the quarterback post also.—Jones sends his Iowa men through signals and light scrummaging.

Wolverines vary by short signal drill while scrubs tear through reserves at will.—Notre Dame gets down to smashing battles, although Karperry, Degrasse and O'Leary are still with injuries.—President Hardin may end the annual game between West Point and Annapolis at Philadelphia, Nov. 25.—Yale offers low game for 1923 at New Haven.—Pittsburgh, Mass., high school will play Provo at Chicago Saturday.

Milton—Football fans of this section only three days away. Coach Richards continues to drive the Wisconsin varsity through hard practice. Another long practice was gone through Tuesday night, with the last ball put into the water night came on.

He worked at his trade in Lake Geneva even until his infirmities demanded his commitment to the asylum.
